Eligibility Criteria

Employer Eligibility

Employer eligibility only depends on your employer, and not on the work you do for your employer. This tool will allow you to search our employer database to find out if the employer that will certify your employment qualifies for PSLF and TEPSLF.

Note: If at least one day of your employment falls within a period during which we determined your employer to be eligible, you will be able to complete the PSLF application.
Create a list of your employers since October 2007 to determine if they qualify for PSLF.

To begin, click the “+ Add Employer” box.
To search for an employer, type in the Employer Identification Number (EIN) without the dashes and your employment start and end dates.

- If you are searching for your current employer, turn on the “This is my current employer” button and provide your employment start date.
• The results of your employer search will appear on the screen.

  • If your employer has been designated as a qualified public service employer, the results will display a green “Eligible” tag.

  • If your employer has not already been designated as a qualified public service employer, the results will display with gold “ Likely Ineligible” tag.

    • If you believe your employer meets the PSLF eligibility requirements, you should select it on the list and proceed with the process.

  • If a determine has already been made that your employer does not qualify as a public service employer, the results will display with a red “Not Eligible” tag.
Review the search results before selecting your employer and choose the employer whose name and address best matches information in your records.

Click continue and confirm what types of federal student loans you have. (See Guide on Student Loan Types for instructions)
If no results are found for your employer, or you believe your employer is incorrectly labeled with a red “Not Eligible” tag, you should manually add the employer to your list. The Department of Education will review the information you provide and determine if the employer qualifies for PSLF.
